Information coming from a Cabinet which sat at cabinet library today indicates that Makerere University Business School has been granted an autonomous status.

The information indicates that cabinet unanimously resolved to split MUBS from Makerere University.

Sources said that the cabinet chaired by Prime Minister Amama Mbabazi passed the proposal moved by the minister of education and sports Maj. Jessica Alupo.

In effect according to sources, MUBS will now work independently without referring to Makerere University.

The sources said cabinet had now made Makerere University Business School autonomous from Makerere University and that it is now be one of the degree awarding institutions in Uganda.

The sources stated that cabinet directed MUBS to work at the level of Uganda Management Institute as government works towards making MUBS a fully fledged university in future.

These two institutions have been at loggerheads with MUBS seeking autonomy from Makerere for so long.
