The government has been tasked to bring to book individuals who shot and killed two Makerere University students in a 1990 strike.

The challenge has been made by the leader of opposition in parliament Nandala Mafabi during a special parliament session for the late Prof. William Senteza Kajubi this afternoon.

Mafabi argues that while the late Prof Senteza as then Vice chancellor took political responsibility for the death of the two students identified as Tom Okema and Tom Onyango, government has not apprehended any person in connection with that incident.

He demands that if the Kajubi's legacy is to be respected, government
