

Take 5: Martin Kaboine - Makerere University deputy speaker contestant

Sizzling Entertainment

Thursday, 10 May 2012 21:51

Written by Sharon Atwine

0 Comments

Martin Kaboine is a student of Statistics and Applied Economics at Makerere University and currently contesting for deputy speaker at the institution.

He filed five questions with Sharon Atwine.

Have you always been interested in politics?

Yes I have since my primary school at St Savio where I was involved in leadership. And since I am a first born, I guess it is natural [to be a leader].

Who is your best politician?

Kahinda Otafiire has always inspired me but of late I like Amelia Kyambadde. I must admit she has got a very strong personality.

Which person do you look up to?

Mbaga Tuzinde, an economist at Electricity Regulatory Authourity. He has achieved a lot in a short time but best of all my parents because of their humility and resilience.

How do you manage to balance school and leadership?

I have always scheduled my daily and weekly tasks. I believe prioritising is the key here and I use my smart phone to check my schedule.

Dream car?

Hummer; its masculinity and engine power amaze me.

atwinesharon@yahoo.com

< Prev

Next >