

The nexus of conflict and development.
Through your lens.

Win up to $5000 to travel abroad. Learn more about international photojournalism grant at www.condevcenter.org/smgp
Deadline - October 10, 2014

The Student Media Grants Program (#SMGP) is an annual photojournalism grant awarded to students interested in using innovative methods to research and chronicle issues facing fragile and conflict-affected nations. Students are invited to create proposals describing their international travel, research idea, and photographic subjects. They should choose an international development area that reflects issues of food insecurity, health, education, land tenure, poverty, etc. as the basis for the proposal. Students do not have to be professional or experienced photographers to apply!

Winnings students are awarded funding up to $5,000 for their research and international travel. Applications are due October 10, 2014. More information on the application process can be found at <http://condevcenter.org/2014smgp/>.

The Student Media Grants Program is administered by the Center on Conflict and Development at Texas A&M University through a grant funded by the Howard G. Buffett Foundation.