

STELLENBOSCH UNIVERSITY
ADA & MAKERERE UNIVERSITY
DRGT JOINT DOCTORAL SCHOOL
6TH TO 17TH NOVEMBER 2017

The Directorate of Research and Graduate Training in collaboration with the African Doctoral Academy at Stellenbosch University announces a PhD Cross cutting Training Course:

PHILOSOPHY OF METHODS

CALL FOR APPLICATIONS:

Course Date: 6th to 17th November 2017

Venue: To be communicated

Who should apply : PhD Students

Maximum Number of Participants: 40

Closing Date for Applications: Friday 20th October 2017

This course unit is among the required cross cutting courses for PhD students to expand their academic and practical comprehension of the concepts of science, knowledge and research; acquaint the students with the philosophical principles behind the quantitative and qualitative methods of research; enhance the students' awareness about ethical conflicts in relation to research; and provide a forum for each student to discuss, and improve their own research proposals. The course will be conducted by the Department of Philosophy and Development Studies, Makerere University.

Please forward written applications indicating the stage of your PhD progress (e.g. Concept development, proposal writing, data collection, analysis etc.), your Gender, Department, School, College, telephone and e-mail contact address electronically to: conference@rgt.mak.ac.ug or deliver a hard copy to the Division of Research, Innovations and Knowledge Transfer Partnership (KTP), Lincoln House, Flat B5.

Deadline for applications is Friday 20th October 2017 at 5:00 pm. Admission is on first come first served basis.

PhD Students that are employees of the partner public Universities are encouraged to apply. However, please note that you will be expected to cover your own transport and accommodation costs.

Selected applicants will be informed through e-mail by the 30th October 2017