BERLIN
ENERGY
TRANSITION
DIALOGUE
2018

17 – 18 April 2018 at the Federal Foreign Office in Berlin, Germany

Every spring, high-level international decision makers come together to discuss the fundamental transition of the global energy sector and its impact in order to address climate change. The Berlin Energy Transition Dialogue connects stakeholders from politics, business and civil society. This two-day conference turns Berlin into the hotspot of the global energy transformation towards renewable energy and energy efficiency. For participants, it provides an ideal opportunity to share in-depth knowledge, discussing innovative concepts and shaping the political discourse.

The Conference also setting the stage for the Berlin Energy Week: over the course of the whole week, unique hands-on experiences of the energy transition, along with side events, guided tours, receptions, business-to-government formats and workshops, will be provided.
