

MAKERERE

UNIVERSITY

CALL FOR APPLICATIONS FOR EIGHT (8) MASTERS SCHOLARSHIPS

TENABLE AT MAKERERE UNIVERSITY

UNDER THE NORHED II PROJECT

CABUTE - CAPACITY BUILDING FOR

RESEARCH-BASED TEACHER EDUCATION

Date: February 15, 2022

Makerere University in collaboration with University of Bergen, Norway; Kyambogo University, Uganda; National Institute of Teacher Education (UNITE); and Western Norway University of Applied Sciences is implementing a six (6) years NORHED II supported Project titled 'Capacity Building for Research-Based Teacher Education (CABUTE)'.

CABUTE is aimed at enabling Uganda's successful implementation of the National Teacher Policy through capacity building in English, General Education, Mathematics and Music. The specific objectives of CABUTE are:

- To strengthen the quality and relevance of postgraduate teacher education and research program and methods in selected subjects
- To strengthen postgraduate teacher educator education and research systems in the selected subjects.
- To increase competence and capacity of higher education faculty and teacher educators.
- To improve institutional small-scale infrastructure and equipment for education and research.
- To improve gender equality and inclusion of marginalized groups in teacher education and research in selected subjects.
- To increase availability of opportunities for lifelong learning among teacher educators, and
- To increase engagement with the Ugandan ministry of education and sports and other relevant stakeholders for dissemination of knowledge, among others.

To achieve these objectives, CABUTE provides a total of eight (8) Masters scholarships to promising scholars conducting their studies and research in one or a combination of the following subject areas:

- English/English Education (two scholarships)
- General Education/Foundations of Education (two scholarships)
- Mathematics/Mathematics Education (two scholarships)
- Music/Music Education (two scholarships)

The training of the eight (8) students will take place at Makerere University, with co-supervision from the University of Bergen and/or Western Norway University of Applied Sciences.

CABUTE especially invites interested candidates from the Ugandan CABUTE-partner institutions (Makerere University, Kyambogo University, and UNITE) to apply for the scholarships. Applicants from other Teacher Training Colleges in Uganda may come into consideration if the CABUTE-partner institutions are unable to recruit well-qualified applicants to the scholarships.

The Masters training will commence in September 2022 and will be supported for a period of two (2) years on full-time basis. The training is preferably under Education-relevant Masters programmes at Makerere University.

ANY APPLICATION SENT AFTER THE DEADLINE WILL BE REJECTED.

Selection Process

These are competitive Masters scholarships. The applications shall be vetted by a selection panel consisting of professors selected from Makerere University, Kyambogo University,

Uganda National Institute of Teacher Education (UNITE), Western Norway University of Applied Sciences and University of Bergen in Norway.

Admission for Masters Studies at Makerere University

The admission for Masters in the four areas of specialization is independent of the scholarship award and hence candidates must follow the existing admission processes/regulations at Makerere University.

Successful candidates for the scholarship who are not yet admitted at Makerere University will be required to follow Makerere University Masters application procedure and secure admission before commencement of the Masters training in September 2022.

Improving equality and inclusion

The CABUTE-project is aiming to improve equality and inclusion of marginalized groups in teacher education, and women, members of ethnic and cultural minorities, and other marginalized groups are therefore strongly encouraged to apply. Please inform us in your application if you want to be considered as an applicant on this basis.
