

ADVANCED TRAINING COURSE IN DEFORESTATION-FREE SUPPLY CHAIN MANAGEMENT

Deforestation and degradation of forest resources are among the primary drivers of the climate crisis and the accelerating loss of biodiversity on a global scale while also contributing to social inequalities.

Under the European Union Regulation on deforestation-free products, commonly known as EUDR, European companies are required to verify—through due diligence procedures—that raw materials and specific forest-risk commodities (FRCs) placed on or exported from the EU market are "deforestation-free".

This course aims to bridge the skills gap between market demands and available expertise by equipping participants with theoretical knowledge and practical skills in deforestation-free supply chain (DFSC) management.

IN A NUTSHELL

- WHO IS IT FOR?
Students with a master's degree seeking specialisation in deforestation-free supply chain management and professionals in supply chain management.
- COURSE FORMAT
Entirely online with asynchronous video-classes
- LANGUAGE
English
- DURATION
125 hours
- CERTIFICATION
6 ECTS
- COST
The enrollment fee is €572,50. Students from Erasmus+ EMMA4EU partner universities can enroll free of charge.
- TRAINING INSTITUTION
University of Padua, supported by EMMA4EU partners
- DEADLINE
Applications will close on february 21 at 12:30 PM CET

WHAT WILL YOU FIND IN THE COURSE?

Addressing risks associated with FRCs demands diverse skills, particularly for complex products or supply chains. This course guides you through four modules, from basics to advanced practical skills.

The proposed course aims to bridge the skills gap by equipping participants with theoretical and practical expertise. Trainees will be prepared to assume roles as managers and technicians of DFSC, with skills tailored to meet regulatory demands and market challenges.

www.emma4eu.eu  @emma4eu

APPLY NOW AND CREATE DEFORESTATION-FREE SUPPLY CHAINS IN EUROPE!

In partnership with